

Jenny AND Nick

OUR JOURNEY TO ADOPTION

about us

We met through a coworker of Jenny's who was a friend of Nick's, and the first few years we knew each other, we were great friends. We officially started dating in 2021, and we got engaged in 2023 while on a trip in Banff, Canada. Nick's parents took us there as it was Jenny's dream vacation spot, and Nick proposed on top of Sulphur Mountain. Nick works for his family's business in the auto parts industry and has worked various roles there since 2006. He is now a significant part of the ownership group and gets to work closely with friends and family. Jenny is a newly board certified family nurse practitioner. She is starting her career as a nurse practitioner fellow at the local children's hospital. Our daily post-work and school routine consists of going to the gym, walking our dog, cooking a home-cooked meal, and relaxing while we talk about our day and laugh endlessly together!

OUR HOME + PETS

We live on the end of a double cul-de-sac neighborhood in Massachusetts. Our town is a relatively small suburb, but it has a lot to offer. There are multiple schools in the area that provide excellent academic, athletic, and artistic opportunities. The town we currently reside in is the town Nick graduated from. Jenny graduated from the neighboring town, and both had great experiences. We have access to oceans, mountain ranges, and cities. New England is a beautiful location and provides year-round outdoor activities. We have a nine-year-old German shepherd, Ayla, who loves taking advantage of the New England weather and terrain. She is incredibly friendly and loving. We have a 13-year-old cat, Nova, who is aloof but very friendly. They would both be incredible playmates to a little one!

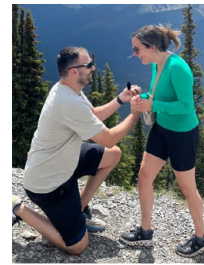

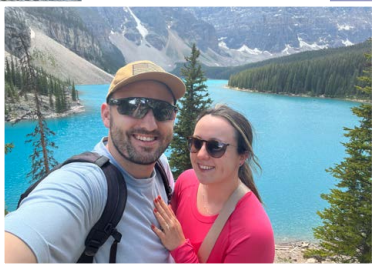

WHAT LED US TO ADOPTION

Jenny has a congenital kidney abnormality that was corrected surgically and is managed with medication. This medication, however, is not conducive to pregnancy, and pregnancy has the potential to be dangerous for her. We both have friends and family members who were adopted, so adoption is already a hugely important part of our lives. If chosen, your child will always feel accepted by our friends and family, and they will have a support system of other adoptees who have lived a similar experience that they will always have the option to talk to. We are fortunate to be in the position where adoption is a possibility for us, and we are certain we can provide a child with a happy, safe, and loving home!

AND TRADITIONS

Nick grew up as the oldest child with his younger brother. However, when he was 14, his parents adopted his older sister, who was a high school student of his mother's. Nick also has two younger cousins who were adopted as newborns by his aunt. He still has three living grandparents who also reside in New England. Nick's parents live one town over, and the entire family gets together regularly. Christmas morning is very important in their family. The entire extended family gets together to open presents and enjoy a home-made meal together.

Jenny has an older brother as well as two younger half-siblings from her father's second marriage. They live in South Carolina with her grandmother but visit frequently. Jenny's mom lives one town over and also visits regularly. Jenny's mom grew up with two adopted siblings as well (one living, one deceased), and she has always had excellent relationships with them. Jenny's mom is from Cape Cod, which is where the majority of her extended family lives. They visit every summer and spend a lot of time at the beach.

DEAR

*expectant
mother*

Thank you for taking the time to view our profile and considering us to adopt your beautiful baby! We know this decision is incredibly difficult for you, regardless of the reason you are considering adoption. Our hope is that you allow yourself some grace and that this decision can bring you peace. There is nothing easy about what you are experiencing, but we hope knowing your child will be welcomed into a safe and loving home makes it just a little bit more comfortable for you.

If you choose us, we promise to provide your child with education, culture, love, and adventure. We are so grateful to be in a position that allows us to adopt and provide a child with the best life possible. We are lucky enough to have adoption on both sides of our family. Our families would not be what they are today without adoption, and your child will never feel out of place in our family. Your child will be surrounded by so much love from not only us but our family and friends. Thank you for your consideration, bravery, and selflessness. You are and always will truly be a hero to us.

WITH LOVE AND SUPPORT,

Nick and Jenny
